Supporting a Just Transition to Zero Carbon

We know from the pandemic that communities can pull together.

We need to use that resource to:

- Further develop our ability to work together
- To become more self-reliant locally
- To develop local groups and solutions
- To influence and collaborate with local government

So what is a Climate Action Station?

- A driving force, mobilising resources for a practical climate action network
- A hub to support, initiate, facilitate projects, create partnerships and source information and expertise
- A network to link people in shared projects and shared purpose
- An education resource for communities and businesses
- Evolutionary – bring in more organisations as capacity grows

How Can We Do This??

- Establish a district-wide coalition to educate, support, enable
- A partnership open to the whole community – from individuals through community groups, social enterprises and businesses to parish and town councils
- Support and empower communities to tackle cost of living, climate mitigation, climate adaptation and social isolation through integrated projects
- Develop a Climate Action Station

The Climate Action Station is designed to engage the wider community to drive meaningful action on not just the climate crisis, but on food poverty, fuel poverty and homelessness in our district.
